Introduction

All West Virginia counties have joined the nationwide Campaign for Grade-Level Reading (GLR), committing to work collaboratively to increase the number of children reading at grade level by the end of third grade. West Virginia was announced as a statewide campaign partner in January 2015, and now, all 55 counties have made a commitment to the national effort.

The Campaign for Grade-Level Reading is dedicated to narrowing the gap between children from low-income families and their more affluent peers. According to the U.S. Department of Education, that gap has widened significantly in recent years, with 80 percent of low-income students failing to read proficiently in fourth grade compared to 49 percent of their more affluent peers. Membership in the GLR Communities Network gives counties access to experts and policymakers focused on the issue, assistance in addressing the challenges that keep many children from learning to read and opportunities to share and learn with similar communities.

“As part of the One Voice. One Focus. All Students Achieving vision plan, West Virginia schools will provide a statewide early childhood focus where we teach every child to read, on grade level, by third grade, and where pre-literacy development is essential to closing achievement gaps,” said Michael Martirano, state superintendent of schools. “The WVDE is well-poised to move forward with the West Virginia Leaders of Literacy: Campaign for Grade Level Reading through a comprehensive approach to early literacy that includes an emphasis on all content areas of development in school, as well as strengthening school readiness efforts, promoting positive attendance patterns, and providing access to high-quality, sustained extended day and extended year learning opportunities.”

Each county in West Virginia has developed a formal plan to address the underlying challenges that can keep young children, especially those from low-income families, from learning to read well:

- School readiness - too many children are entering kindergarten already behind
- School attendance - too many children are missing too many days of school
- Extended learning opportunities - too many children are losing ground academically over the summer
- High quality instruction – while schools cannot do it alone, there is an obligation to support increased teacher expertise which is the factor most closely related to student achievement

The Campaign for GLR is a collaborative effort of funders, non-profit partners, business leaders, government agencies, states and communities across the nation to ensure that many more children from low-income families succeed in school and graduate prepared for college, a career, and active citizenship.
Purpose

The intent of the 2016 West Virginia Leaders of Literacy: Campaign for Grade-Level Reading Resource Guide is to provide County Grade-Level Reading Teams and stakeholders with a comprehensive list of local, state, and national partners and resources available to support the initiatives outlined in each county’s Action Plan. This edition provides information to support implementation of projects, initiatives, and strategies for each component of the Campaign: School Readiness, Attendance, Extended Learning, High Quality Instruction, as well as Funding.

The information included in this guide was provided by the organizations. The editors of the guide endeavored to preserve the integrity of the information provided while also maintaining a sense of cohesiveness to the document.

Please note that there is no icon dedicated to family engagement because it must be a consideration in all partnerships, projects, and initiatives. Engaged communities must be mobilized to remove barriers, expand opportunities and assist parents and families in fulfilling their roles and responsibilities to serve as full partners in the success of their children.

» Families are invited to join the 1,000 Books Before Kindergarten program at the Brooke County Library and Follansbee Branch. The 1,000 Books Before Kindergarten program is a nationwide challenge that encourages parents and caregivers to regularly read aloud to their children. By reading just one book a night, families can reach the 1,000-book goal in three years and provide their children essential early literacy skills.
» Research shows that the most reliable predictor of school success is being read to during early childhood. Reading to children from an early age can help close the vocabulary gap and prepare children to enter kindergarten with the skills they need to succeed. Most importantly, sharing books with children promotes a lifelong love of books and reading.
» The 1,000 Books Before Kindergarten program is available to all families with children between the ages of birth and five years.
» To begin you must register. Registration is open. For more information, call the library or stop by to pick up your starter packet. (Packets can be printed out on our website; registration form must be printed and filled out -top part only- and turned into the library.)

» Cornerstone Parents as Teachers (PAT) helps parents understand child development and connects them to the resources they need to make the best choices for their families. PAT offers personal visits customized for the needs of your family. This voluntary early childhood home visiting program begins working with families during pregnancy and continues through age 5.
  • Your personal parent educator is there to provide well-researched information to help you make good parenting decisions…and to provide concrete support to you in times of need.
  • Group connections link you to other parents just like you so you can learn and grow together as parents.
  • Regular screenings will make sure your child is healthy, safe and developing on track.
  • Need more help or a special resource? Your parent educator will make the introduction and connect you.

» PAT is an evidence based model that helps all children learn, grow, and develop to their full potential. The model is based on the core value that the earliest years are the most important years, that the brain develops more in the first five years of life, that parents are that first teacher in a child’s life, and it ensures that the child gets the best start in life and will succeed in other areas such as school and health.

» Some of the outcomes are increased school readiness and decreased child abuse and neglect.

The community of Monroe County recognizes the need for children ages birth to five to have access to books and reading during their early stages of development. In conjunction with this need and in correlation with Monroe County School's Campaign for Grade Level Reading, the goal will be to provide books for the children regardless of income status and who would be considered at-risk as well. In consulting with Monroe County Schools, student achievement data from third grade students shows a decline in reading proficiency. The Early Literacy team of Monroe County has recognized the need to focus instructional efforts to ensure that all children are reading at grade level by the end of the third grade.

Mountain State Healthy Families (MSHF) is part of the Healthy Families America (HFA) network. HFA is a nationally-recognized, voluntary service that connects expectant parents and parents of newborns with free child development assistance in their homes. MSHF focuses on
- Basic Care
- Social and Emotional Development
- Cues and Communication
- Physical and Brain Development
- Play and Stimulation.

MSHF also works to:
- Ensure families have a medical provider
- Link families with other resources in the community as needed
- Assist families in following up with recommended immunization schedules.
Musselman-South Berkeley Community Library, a branch of the Martinsburg-Berkeley County Public Library, offers resources and programs that promote early literacy and year-round learning. Weekly storytimes for preschool children and weekend storytimes encourage family literacy. A summer reading program offers many opportunities for learning after the school term ends.
Work centers on three strategic priorities:

- Recognizing and disseminating what works in summer learning
- Offering expertise and support for programs and communities to strengthen and expand summer learning opportunities
- Convening leaders and advocating for summer learning as a solution for equity and excellence in education.

NSLA supports Campaign coalition members and program providers’ missions in the following ways:

- Summer Learning Day (SLD). SLD is a national advocacy platform that supports the Campaign’s efforts to build awareness, and inspire action for summer learning and reading across the network of Campaign communities. The goal is to engage GLR communities in SLD action that will advance their work in the four key strategies for summer learning success. SLD 2015 impacted over 700,000 youth across the nation. Learn more at summerlearning.org/KeepKidsLearning
- Summer Changes Everything™ National Conference. Featuring sessions on a range of topics, from program planning and assessment to partnership building and parent engagement, the annual Summer Changes Everything™ national conference on summer learning workshops, plenaries, and speakers offer innovative ideas and practical resources to advance your grade-level reading work and summer learning priorities.
- Huddle. Free downloadable toolkits and tip sheets are available on the Huddle and NSLA's website. Huddle blog posts and weekly round-ups intentionally link to content, the four key strategies and other opportunities through NSLA. Are you registered and ready to join the conversation? Visit http://glrhuddle.org/ to learn more.
- Webinars. Webinars provide relevant content and expertise around the four key strategies (Community-wide messaging; Expanding access to books and integrating literacy skills; Expanding access to summer meals, physical activity and health; and Data sharing, collection and analysis) and other opportunities through NSLA. Questions generated during webinars are used to drive community-to-community discussions on the Huddle. Webinars include free resources, detailed examples and expert guests from the field at the intersection of early literacy and summer learning.
- Affinity Groups (Early Literacy) NSLA is increasingly aware of the desire of providers to connect to peers in their own city, state or region. NSLA is excited to be able to facilitate those connections seamlessly through an online infrastructure and affinity group model. The affinity group model encourages field participation and ownership, enabling providers, cities and states to launch their own affinity groups using NSLA's platforms.

» Reading Roundup puts an age-appropriate paperback book, along with a library card application, Read Aloud pamphlet and a recommended reading list, in the hands of all children who register for kindergarten in Kanawha County.
» Food for Thought provides inexpensive new books to several elementary schools each year. The books sell for $1 each at a special book fair in January. The intention is that for the price of a snack, children who may never have had the opportunity to buy their own books, can begin to choose books for themselves and invest in it. Schools are chosen based on their proportion of low-income students, enrollment and specific need. Each school receives 10 copies of 50 titles. Schools reimburse Read Aloud for $250 to use towards next year’s program to feed the minds of children in the county.

Helps schools and communities across the nation deepen and scale their parent engagement efforts by leveraging the power of video modeling and mobile technology to meet and equip parents where they are. Many organizations are doing great things to tell parents how to interact with their children. ReadyRosie has hundreds of brief videos in English and Spanish that model everyday interactions in everyday environments with everyday parents. These videos are delivered to parents via email, text message, or through our mobile app.

ReadyRosie has also created an additional resource that takes this same approach up through 3rd grade - BringingUp - http://bringingup.com/

ReadyRosie and BringingUP are parent engagement resources that use short videos to model Math and Literacy strategies in both English and Spanish.

Parents and caregivers receive these tips via email, SMS text, or through our mobile app.

ReadyRosie and BringingUP provide an “all hands on deck” approach to third grade literacy by providing mobile content that builds capacity in a community’s PARENTS, CHILD CARE PROFESSIONALS, GRANDPARENTS, HOME VISITORS, LIBRARIANS, and other community stakeholders. Early Steps to School Success provides education and family support through home visits, group meetings, school connections, a book exchange, and community events. Save the Children Early Childhood Program Specialists work directly with locally hired paraprofessionals who are trained and become Early Childhood Coordinators to implement the following components:

- Home Visits
- Parent-Child Education and Support Groups
- Family-School Connection
- Positive Transition to School
- Transition to Preschool
- Transition to Kindergarten
- Book Exchange, all children, birth to five, enrolled in ESSS participate in the Early Steps Book Exchange. For 3 to 5 year olds, ESSS program staff partner with a local agency, usually a center-based Head Start or State Preschool program, and provide the Book Exchange to a classroom of children. Each week the Early Childhood Coordinator provides the child with a book bag and models with the parent/caregiver the following topics age and culturally appropriate books as well as training for parents/caregivers in dialogic reading.
- ESSS Early Childhood Coordinators are hired from the community, and Save the Children trains and supports them by letting them know what services are available and how they can connect families to the services in respectful, culturally appropriate ways. ESSS Early Childhood Coordinators teach families to build local resource connections so that they are able to advocate for themselves in a sustainable way—with services that will continue to be there for them in their community.

» The United Way Born Learning Academy program connects schools with families of young children during the critical period of early learning (birth to PreK) prior to school enrollment. The concept, based on the Harlem Children’s Zone Baby College, emphasizes the importance of early learning. Families participate in “academy” trainings where they learn how to create teachable moments for their children.
» The Born Learning curriculum provides building blocks for families to support their child’s future academic successes and creates a strong connection between home and school. The program engages families in hands-on activities/discussions about what it means to be ready for kindergarten and strategies to maximize early learning/development. The academies are built around a research-based curriculum that addresses six important themes: 1) series overview, 2) building relationships, 3) language skills, 4) nutrition and health, 5) how children learn, and 6) routines and learning on the go.

A program for families with children from the prenatal stage of life to six years of age or Kindergarten Entry. This program provides information and ideas for activities to enhance your child’s development, information for age appropriate behavior, developmental screenings and family support through monthly home or center based visits utilizing the nationally accredited Born to Learn curriculum. Enroll your child today!

- Weekly Play Groups – Families with children from the walking stage of life to Kindergarten Entry enjoy an hour of play time and socialization, story time, music and a hot lunch from the school cafeteria. Children learn school type of behaviors as they learn to sit for story time and walk in line to the cafeteria to receive their lunch.
- Monthly Group Meetings – Topics regarding child development, healthy lifestyles and safety issues are discussed in a group setting with fun family activities.
- Developmental Screenings - Screenings are provided upon entrance to the program and then once a year on the child’s birthday. Screenings are good for detecting strengths and weaknesses in a child’s development. When red flags are detected referrals are made to an Early Intervention Program for further evaluation and treatment if needed in order to insure Kindergarten readiness.

OTHER SERVICES:

- Baby Pantry – Located at the Chesapeake City Hall and in partnership with the Upper Kanawha Valley Improvement Council/Capitol Resource Agency and Community Volunteers. The pantry is open on Wednesdays from 9:30 a.m. to noon and serves families with children sizes newborn to 5T. Other items such as household items, toys, books, formula, baby food, diapers, etc. are stocked as donations permit. The pantry runs off of community donations of new or gently used items.
- Information & Referrals – A service that links families with community services and agencies.
- Family Literacy – The Family Story Teller is an education program using children’s literature. This six week program offers free books and story stretcher activities to promote comprehension, bonding and more.
- Fall Kiddie Health and Information Fair – Provides information and materials from an array of agencies about health, safety and education for the entire family. Activities such as hay rides, pumpkin decorating and more are available for families.
- Teen Pregnancy Program - A program designed specifically for teens. A specific research based and nationally accredited curriculum is utilized to deliver information to support teen parents through the many challenges that they may incur between being healthy and completing their unique goals. Additionally, resources provided to teens are local resources geared to our teens.
- Lactation Consultation - Our lactation consultant, Andrea McCune, is a breastfeeding specialist trained to teach mothers how to feed their baby. She is trained to help women experiencing breastfeeding problems, such as latching difficulties, painful nursing, and low milk production. If you have questions about breast feeding or need help you can give Andrea a call at 304-595-5521.
- Circle of Parents - Circle of Parents meets on a weekly basis in the center. It is a friendly, parent led and supportive environment. It’s a place where anyone in a parenting role can openly discuss the successes and challenges of raising children. Often times parents have said they would just like to have other adults to talk to. This program presents the perfect opportunity. Also, available is a children’s program separate from the parents room. Children learn social skills and enjoy children’s crafts and story time. A similar program is available and geared towards teens. Call 304-595-5521 for more information.
- Baby Safety Shower - This event takes place in the spring and offers an array of information about the health and safety of infants with emphasis on breast feeding and safe sleep. Exhibitors with local resources for our youngest families are available. Games, food and prizes are an attraction that everyone enjoys.
